

FEURA

Biography

They don't care if you like them. They don't care if you get it. They don't care if you're ready for it. This is Feura—raw, unfiltered, and unapologetically real. Breaking through the grit of Toronto's underground, her alternative music is a fierce collision of grunge, punk, and hard-hitting alt-rock, fueled by an unrelenting need to unleash from expectations and speak the truth. With a growing community of 171K+ followers, she's become a voice for those who've been overlooked, misunderstood, or straight-up rejected.

Feura's live shows are a blur of sweat, noise, and visceral energy—a place where she leaves it all on the stage and demands the same from anyone who dares to listen. Shredding up Canadian stages, Feura has played over 40+ shows in the last year ranging from performances at Canada's largest pride festival, to opening for JUNO-winning punk-rock band NOBRO at The Horseshoe Tavern.

In addition to leading their own band, Feura served as the Artistic and Music Director for The Canadian Musicians Co-operative's 2024 Emerging Artist Showcase. They expertly crafted a three-hour performance and directed a cast and crew of over 45+. With a budget of $200K, this marks Feura's largest production to date. Beyond their own work, Feura remains dedicated to mentoring emerging artists, helping them refine their live performance skills and master the art of live show production.

With her debut album set to drop in 2026, Feura is poised to take her music to even greater heights. Packed with raw emotion and unfiltered authenticity, this highly anticipated release promises to further cement her as one of the most exciting voices in rock today. Keep your eyes peeled and your ears open—Feura's journey is just beginning, and she's not slowing down anytime soon.
